4 SENATORS READ OUT OF REPUBLICAN PARTY

LADD, FRAZIER ARE NAMED IN BANNED LIST

Senator LaFollette and Brookhart Also to be Refused Recognition by G. O. P.

CURTIS NAMED LEADER

Kansas Senator to Take Position made Vacant by the Death of Lodge

Washington, Nov. 28.—(By the A. P.)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette and three of his principal supporters in the senate practically were read out of the party today at a conference of senate republicans. The conference adopted a resolution by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania under which Mr. LaFollette, Senators Ladd and Frazier of North Dakota and Brookhart of Iowa will no longer be given Republican places on senate committees or be invited to attend future party conferences. The resolution reads: "Resolved, that it be the sense of the conference that Senators LaFollette, Ladd, Brookhart and Frazier be not invited to future conferences and be not named to fill any Republican vacancies on senate committees."

The resolution will not disturb present committee assignments, Republican leaders said, but will serve as an expression of the view of the conference to be considered by the committee on committees when the question of filling vacancies comes up. Separate viva voce votes were taken on each section of the resolution and the majority was overwhelming in each case, with only two or three voices raised in opposition. There were no speeches in opposition but Senator Herald, Oklahoma, suggested certain modifications which were disapproved.

Senator Spencer of Missouri moved the appointment of a committee to suggest ways and means of accomplishing the same purpose sought in the resolution, but the conference adopted the Reed resolution as the preferred alternative. Modification Refused. Senator Harrell's proposal was to so modify the resolution as to name only Senator LaFollette. The proposal met with instant, extensive opposition and finally was rejected. Senator Howell of Nebraska also objected to the resolution.

Thirty-two of the 51 Republicans of the senate attended the conference. Senator Ladd of North Dakota was the only one of the insurgent group present. Senators LaFollette, Brookhart, Frazier and Norris were absent. The question first was raised by Senator Edge of New Jersey, who told his colleagues that Republican senators faced a responsibility in the matter to the country, to the party, and to themselves, which could not be shirked.

MESSAGE NEXT WEEK. Washington, Nov. 28.—President Coolidge's message to Congress will be read next Wednesday, it was agreed today at a conference between the President and Republican house leaders. The plan has been understood that the senate would adjourn Monday until Wednesday.

CURTIS CHOSEN. Washington, Nov. 28.—(By the A. P.)—Charles Curtis, senator from Kansas, was selected today as successor to the late Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts as the Republican leader in the senate. Senator James E. Watson of Indiana was elected vice-chairman and party "whip," a post which has been held by Senator Curtis since the Republicans gained control of the Congress in 1918.

LEGISLATURE TO HEAR FROM 2 GOVERNORS

Both Nestos and Sorlie Are Expected to Deliver Messages to Solons

BILLS TO COME UP

Much Speculation as to Subjects Which Will Be of Major Consideration

The North Dakota State Legislature will hear two messages when it convenes on January 9, 1925. Governor Nestos, as required by Governor, and A. G. Sorlie, as incoming Governor, both are expected to deliver addresses to the legislature, according to custom, probably on separate days. At the last session of the legislature, the solons listened to but one address, since Governor Nestos already was in office, and for part of the incumbency of Lynn J. Frazier there was no retiring Governor to give a message as well as an incoming Governor. The legislature, it is provided, shall meet on the first Tuesday in January, and the date for the coming session falls on January 9, an unusually late date in January for the legislature to convene for its biennial grid of 60 days. Uncertainty as to the recommendations which may be made by A. G. Sorlie, Governor-elect, and the fact that political control of the legislature may be divided, leaves forecasters somewhat at a loss in making early predictions of outstanding questions to come before the assembly.

Important Subjects. Because of the changes made in the tax laws at the last session, and the fact that some recommendations for change have been made by the tax commissioner, it is held likely that tax laws will be the subject of much discussion. Taxation is a hardy perennial of legislative action. With control divided, it is held doubtful if banking laws will assume the importance in the forthcoming session that they held in the last. Present state officials believe that the law of the 1923 session providing for a centralized receivership and revamping the Guaranty Fund law has proved satisfactory, and that the system now being used in liquidating closed banks could not be safely changed at this time. It is expected, however, that an effort will be made through the legislature to accomplish the object of a bond issue to reimburse immediately in full, depositors of most closed banks.

The extent to which the state industries may enter into legislative discussion is entirely problematical. If control is divided, it is held certain that no radical changes will be made. Most of the laws with respect to the state industries are initiated measures, and a two-thirds vote is required to change them. The last legislature authorized credits for the state mill and elevator, through issuance of milling bonds, and it is (Continued on page 2)

BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY IS GIVEN BOOST

New York Firm Announces Intention of Development in Red River Valley

Minneapolis, Nov. 28.—The American Beet Sugar Company of New York will participate with farmers and business men of the Northwest in the development of the beet sugar industry of the Red River valley with cooperative investment in the Red River Valley Sugar Company, H. A. Douglas, president of the Red River Company, announced here today on his return from New York. The American Beet Sugar Company will own the majority of stock. Mr. Douglas confirmed reports that the American Beet Sugar Company has purchased the property of the Minnesota Sugar Company and the Northern Sugar Company of which he also is president, and will continue their operations. Large blocks of stock in the Red River Sugar Company, however, have been set aside for sale to the people of North Dakota and Minnesota, by the company, in the 1,000 ton factory at East Grand Forks, Minnesota.

Restrictions On School Land Loans Are Made

The state board of university and school lands has decided that in the future farm loans will not be made in excess of the assessed value of the land. The law provides that loans may not be made exceeding 50 percent of the appraised value of lands, but too high appraisals made by county boards have resulted in some bad loans, it is said, and the board believes that no loan should be made beyond the assessed value. The board, in special meeting, made farm loans totaling $188,200, and about $15,000 worth of school district bonds. It decided that all dilapidated buildings on state school land will be sold at auction December 31, bids to be received by the land commissioner, at Bismarck.

BUSINESS AT HIGH TOTAL IN NORTHWEST

Reaches Over One Million Dollar Mark in 16 Important Cities in October

SUMMARY IS GIVEN

Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis Reviews Situation in Northwest

Minneapolis, Nov. 28.—The volume of business in this district in October, when measured by individual debits in 16 important cities, reached a very high total of $1,108,086,000, says the monthly report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis announced today. The report continues: "This was 19 per cent larger than the previous record figure of October, 1920, and nearly 50 per cent larger than the total in October last year. This tremendous increase is to be explained largely by the rapid and heavy movement of the bread grains, which began in September. The condition of the labor market locally indicates business expansion, because data compiled by us shows that the unemployed laborer is in a much better bargaining position now than at any time since April of this year."

"Grain receipts at Minneapolis and the Head-of-the-Lakes reached the remarkable total of 9,865,852 bushels during October. The intensity of this figure is best shown by a comparison with September receipts this year of about 86,000,000 bushels and October receipts last year of less than 35,000,000 bushels. More than half of the grain marketed in October was routed to Duluth and nearly 52,000,000 bushels were shipped down the lakes during the month. Prices of all grains advanced during October, with the exception of corn, which declined four cents per bushel in its median price.

Demand Good. "European demand for North American products continues strong during October. Wheat exports from Atlantic and gulf ports, including both Canadian and American grain, amounted to 42,556,000 bushels in the four weeks ending October 25, as compared with 23,800,000 bushels in the same period last year. These figures are derived from the weekly reports of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle. Flour exports from the same ports totaled 2,182,600 barrels in the same four weeks of October, as compared with 1,217,000 barrels a year ago. Rye exports amounted to 12,476,000 bushels in the October period, while in the same period last year, they totaled only 2,795,000 bushels. As prices of wheat and rye were forced upward by this export demand, European purchasers extended their orders to the less desirable grains—namely, barley and oats. Barley exports from Atlantic and gulf ports were about 5 1/2 million bushels in October, as compared with less than 2 million bushels in September and a little more than 1 million bushels in October, 1923. Similarly, in the case of oats, nearly 5 million bushels were exported in October from these ports, as compared with 2 1/2 million in September, and only one-third of a million bushels in October a year ago. During the week ending November 1, exports of barley from Atlantic and gulf ports totaled 2,228,000 bushels, a volume more than five times as large as the volume of barley exports in the same week last year.

Stock Receipts. "Receipts of livestock at terminals during October were one-fourth lower than last year for cattle, one seventh lower for hogs and slightly less for sheep. The movement of feeders, as compared with last year, showed an improvement only for hogs. This means that a change of sentiment has probably taken place among hog raisers. Median prices of hogs, butcher steers and lambs at South St. Paul advanced although some decline is normally expected for this season of the year. The steady development of dairying is shown by the greater receipts of calves than last year and by declines in their median prices greater than normal for this season.

"Prospective building activity, as reflected by building permits granted in 18 important cities of this district, was greater in October this year than a year ago. Improved business confidence is also apparently indicated by the fact that larger projects are under way now than last year. The housing situation in the cities is satisfactory, although many dwellings are for rent now than for several years past. However, this is not reaching such a point of surplus as to break values seriously nor to retard new building. It is noteworthy that there was a greater reduction in the offerings for rent in October than is customary for this season of the year.

British Demands on Egyptian Government Assailed in Communication

COPIES DISTRIBUTED

Parliament Protest Is Sent To All Governments in World. Is Report

Geneva, Nov. 28.—(By the A. P.)—The League of Nations today received a protest from the Egyptian Senate, condemning Great Britain's recent action in Egypt. The document is couched in terms similar to the protest received from the Egyptian Chamber of Deputies, characterizing the British demands for satisfaction for the assassination of Sir Lee Stack, the Sirdar, as excessive and iniquitous.

The League also received a letter from M. Hymans, president of the League's council, notifying the Secretary-General, Sir Eric Drummond, that Hymans had already received direct from the President of the Egyptian chamber a copy of the protest distributed by that body to all the world parliaments and to the League.

M. Hymans received the correct text of the message, whereas that delivered to the League had a line dropped out at Marseilles where it was repeated during the telegraphic transmission from Cairo to Geneva. The corrected text showed that by an extraordinary coincidence the error affected one of the most important points in the message, namely, an appeal for League intervention. Officials said today the Senate's protest makes no specific request for intervention.

In his letter to the Secretary-General, M. Hymans did not indicate what, if anything, he would do about the Egyptian affair in connection with the next meeting of the League council which is to open in Rome December 8.

FRANCE FACES REVOLUTION, IS ASSERTION

Cardinal Warns of Communist Attempt to Take Control of Government

Paris, Nov. 28.—(By the A. P.)—France threatened with a Communist revolution, according to a declaration by Cardinal DeBois, to be published tomorrow in the Semaine Religieuse, an official Catholic organ. Appealing to all French Catholics to "fight against the danger which threatens us so imminently," the Cardinal writes: "The hour is grave. We must react today; tomorrow perhaps will be too late. God protect France." The Cardinal's manifesto, which is circulated throughout France by the Agency Havas deals with the red demonstration at the ceremony attending the transference to the Pantheon of the ashes of Jean Jaures, the martyred socialist leader. "It continues," "Is victorious France, six years after the war, to be a victim of revolution? One may well fear it, if immediately all good citizens do not resist for the honor and safety of the country."

WEEKLY AIR MAIL TALKED

Zeppelin Expert Believes It Would Be Success

Berlin, Nov. 28.—(By the A. P.)—A weekly Zeppelin mail service between the United States and Europe will soon be started, Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin Company, who had charge of the ZR-3 trans-Atlantic flight, said today. The Zeppelin-Goodenair combination does not intend to establish a passenger service for the present, he indicated, but believed one Zeppelin each way weekly, carrying half a million letters at 25 cents a letter, would be a business success. Dr. Eckener expects soon to leave for Spain to arrange for a Madrid-Buenos Aires service operated on the same basis as the weekly service to and from the United States. The dirigibles on this route would take four days going from Europe and four and one-half days returning, he estimated.

FEDERAL EXPERT SEES GREAT BEAUTY IN BADLANDS URGED FOR NATIONAL PARK

Confidence that Major E. A. Goldman, expert for the United States Biological Survey, will make a favorable report both to the chief of the Biological Survey and the director of National Parks Service on the North Dakota Badlands, was expressed here today by E. E. Freden, secretary of the North Dakota Roosevelt Memorial Park Association, after a trip through the Badlands with Goldman. Mr. Goldman was directed to investigate and make a report on the Badlands. "I feel that Major Goldman was favorably impressed," said Mr. Freden, "and I expect that he will make a favorable report to the Biological Survey as well as the National Parks Service."

SCHOOL PLAN IS UP

Movement Launched to Make Big Indian School Out of Ft. Lincoln Reservation

The Lions Club held its weekly dinner Wednesday evening at the Grand Pacific hotel in honor of Congressman Thomas Hall, member of the club, who goes to Washington. The full membership turned out, and the evening was replete with speeches, toasts and songs. Guests invited were Superintendent Dickinson of the Bismarck Indian school, Senator P. T. Kretschmar of the State Budget Board, Mr. Fremberg of the State Highway Commission, and District Governor Lowe of St. Paul. Lion Fred Peterson acted as toastmaster of the evening. Superintendent Dickinson spoke on the needs of the Indian, and the work they were accomplishing out there. He said that North Dakota was entitled to a first class Indian school for the training of the Indian children in this territory, and that Bismarck was the ideal and central location for such a school teaching all the grades including the high school courses, besides farming and the other lines of trade and home economics, etc.; that since the bridge had been built that additional land could be acquired across the river from the state by exchange with the land department; that as it is, the school here is only open to girls and the courses offered are only through the sixth grades. At Fort Berthold there is no school to handle the work, nor is there on the Standing Rock Reservation; and the school at Wahpeton is not equipped to handle the work, he said. Students from there have to be sent to either schools at Salem, Ore., or Lawrence, Kansas, and which are both too far away. Then another thing the schools have are all getting too old and run down on the reservations to be of much use. The time has come when an up-to-date school must be (Continued on page 2)

AMATEUR ACTORS PREPARE TO INVADE REAL THEATRES

London, Nov. 28.—London's 20,000 amateur actors will try this winter to get into the professional class. The 300 societies to which the amateurs belong have banded together and rented a West End theatre where they will stage the best they can produce. They will open the "season" about the first of November with a gala performance organized by many different societies. Afterwards the societies will each take over a theatre for a week and, should any of the productions prove popular, arrangements will be made to produce them at another theatre.

NORTH DAKOTA TAKES FIFTH PLACE AMONG STATES IN GETTING OUT VOTE

North Dakota ranked fifth among the states in the union in the percentage of voters who went to the polls, November 4, according to preliminary figures issued by the National Association of Manufacturers. An excellent record was made in the state, it being figured that 72.1 per cent of those entitled to vote in this state cast their ballots. Indiana and Kansas occupied the honor positions, Indiana getting out 83.2 percent and Kansas 80.3 percent of the total number of voters. West Virginia ranked third with 76.3 per cent, Minnesota fourth with 73.2 per cent and North Dakota fifth. New York showed 69 percent of its potential vote only, but made an increase over the four years previ-

TROOPS STILL PARADE

Move Through Cairo—London Does Not Expect the Mutiny to Spread

London, Nov. 28.—A number of additional arrests of Egyptian deputies were made today, says an Agency dispatch from Cairo.

Cairo, Egypt, Nov. 28.—(By the A. P.)—Two platoons of the Eleventh Sudanese at Khartoum today mutinied and attacked the military hospital, killing one British and two Syrian doctors.

British troops fired on the mutineers, who suffered severe casualties. Further details of the mutiny are not yet available. It is known, however, that a certain restlessness existed in the Eleventh battalion last August.

The big meeting of the students of Al Ashar University, called for today, passed off without incident. British cavalry and infantry again paraded Cairo this morning and aerial reconnaissance were carried out over the principal towns. All were reported quiet.

LONDON NOT WORRIED

London, Nov. 28.—(By the A. P.)—The mutiny of the Egyptian troops at Khartoum cannot spread sufficiently to endanger the British positions in the Sudan, nor is it likely to have an influence against the British there, it was stated by an official this afternoon. It was pointed out that the battalion at Khartoum constituted the only force of Egyptian troops now left in the Sudan and that the British military there was strong enough to keep the situation in hand. The battalion in question was to have left Khartoum today in the wake of the first battalion, which moved out of the Sudan yesterday.

The Sudanese troops and people, particularly in the southern part of the territory, have appeared satisfied with conditions there, it was stated, and there never has been any indication of trouble from that quarter.

It is stated in official quarters, however, that it was expected if trouble broke out along the Nile it would originate in the Sudan. While a mutiny of troops was not an expected possibility, it was not left outside official calculations and the government feels that it had the situation so in hand that spreading of disorders to Egypt is impossible. The position of the Egyptian extremists removed the greatest danger in Cairo and Alexandria, where any important outbreaks, it is thought, would be likely to start.

BOOM SEEN IN LIGNITE COAL DURING YEAR

Heavy Business by Mines in This Section of State Recorded in November

A marked increase in the shipment of lignite coal from western North Dakota mines presages a good winter business for this industry, it is believed here. The lignite industry, which reached a high point of peak production during the coal strike two years ago, suffered from extremely mild weather in the state last winter. Although the present fall has been characterized as mild, the lignite mines in this section of the state are reported busy.

Several mining companies, it has been reported, took salesmen off the road temporarily because of a flood of orders, and many have increased production remarkably in the last week.

Reports of railroad shipments for the month of November, 1924, show an increase over a corresponding period the year previous. Shipments for the month of November, 1924, reported by railroads follow: coal shipped interstate traffic week ending November first, 3,111 tons; November 8, 2,430 tons; November 15, 3,017 tons; within state, November 1, 26,593 tons; November 8, 32,086 tons; November 15, 37,634 tons. The total shipments for the three weeks aggregate 103,141 tons, of which 8,548 was shipped out of the state and 94,593 was shipped to points within the state. For a corresponding three weeks last year, total shipments were 96,548 tons, of which 85,876 was shipped within the state and 10,672 was shipped beyond the state's borders.

PASTOR WILL AID SOLUTION OF MYSTERY

Will Return To Go Into Conference With Prosecutor
King in Ohio

Columbus, O., Nov. 25.—And of the Rev. C. B. Sheatley and his four children in the effort to solve the mysterious death of the pastor's 50-year-old wife, whose body, practically unrecognizable, was found by him in the furnace of the parsonage of Christ Lutheran Church in Rexley, November 17, was expected today by County Prosecutor John R. King on the return of the family from Paris, Ohio, where they have been for the past week. The Rev. Sheatley said they would return to Columbus by automobile today. The victim of the tragedy, Mrs. Adda Sheatley, was buried Thursday. While all the members of the Sheatley family testified voluntarily as to their movements at the time of the tragedy, a number of important developments have been cleared up by additional testimony. Mr. King said that the investigation of the case, which is being made by Brandage and Long, on this analysis hinges the possibility that the body may be exhumed.

The undertaker who moved the body from the furnace and prepared it for burial told Prosecutor King that "the skull was cracked" but he was unable to say whether it resulted from the heat of the furnace or some other cause.

Geraldine Farrar Shatters Operatic Tradition in Presenting of "Carmen"

GERALDINE FARRAR

The version of "Carmen" that known as an initiator. With a de- Gerdine Farrar will offer to the audience at the Auditorium on Monday, December 1, an entirely new interpretation of the operatic masterpiece. In her character- istic and varied comment for the version of "Carmen" one of the best known and best loved of operas, she novel fashion and has severed it from all operatic tradition. Concentrating the interest on the three main characters, and entirely eliminating the minor characters, the story unfolds itself without the interruption and gains immeasurably in vitality and dramatic value by this radical departure. It is, of course, an established fact that Farrar has never been claim and already it is looked upon as an immeasurably important step forward in operatic presentation. The cast with which Farrar has surrounded herself is one of exceptional merit. Numbered among its principals are such splendid artists as Luigi Pasanelli, Joseph Boyer, Emma Nee, Neira Reiger and Edward Molitor. Carlo Peroni, well known throughout the West for his splendid work with the San Carlo Company, is the conductor of an orchestra of excellent musicians. The costumes, ballet, and scenic effects have all been arranged under Miss Farrar's direct supervision, and again ably demonstrate her ability in first class showmanship. Miss Farrar carries her own 18-piece orchestra.

CONTESTS UP TO CONGRESS

Three and Possibly Four Will Be Carried to Body

Washington, Nov. 25.—The senate of the next congress will be called upon to decide at least three election contests. A fourth will be added to the list unless the present senate disposes of the contest against Senator Mayfield, Democrat, Texas, which has been the subject of investigation for nearly two years.

Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico, has informed senators in Washington he will contest the election of Sam G. Branton, Democrat, who was awarded the election by the official count.

Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, will be forced to defend his election. Daniel J. Steck, his Democratic opponent, having announced plans for bringing a contest. An unusual situation has developed in this contest, as several Republican leaders, including Senator Smoot, of Utah, have announced their intention of supporting Steck. Out of a total of more than $1,000,000 votes, Brookhart was declared winner by around 755 ballots. Steck claims he would have won if ballots marked with arrows, placed there by over-zealous supporters, had not been thrown out.

Friends of Senator Johnson, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, say he will contest the election of his opponent, Representative Schall, Republican. Senator Johnson claims Schall made untrue charges against him during the campaign in violating the Minnesota corrupt practices act.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

Now is the Ideal Time to Build More Paved Highways

There is not a single community in the United States that does not need a greater mileage of permanently paved roads.

16,000,000 motor vehicles are now using our highways for business and pleasure. They are packing the paved roads in already congested areas, as well as over-running regions until recently considered remote. And they are pounding to pieces all but permanent roads.

Even though a number of states have made good progress in building Concrete Roads, their present permanently improved mileage is entirely inadequate, as every motorist knows.

Meantime, while the building of permanent highways lags, the production of motor vehicles is increasing the present total at the rate of 4,000,000 a year!

Sooner or later this gap must be closed. Why wait?

Not in a long time have general conditions been so favorable for carrying on such public works as permanent highway building, thus assuring tax payers more for their money.

Now is the ideal time to extend both street and road programs!

F. L. CONKLIN NAMED HEAD OF ASSOCIATION

Commerce Body Directors at Luncheon Lays Plans for Ensuing Year

The new board of directors of the Association of Commerce, at a luncheon meeting today, elected officers and briefly discussed plans for the ensuing year. Officers were named as follows:

President—F. L. Conklin
First Vice-President—W. L. Nuesale
Second Vice-President—J. P. Jackson

Managing Secretary—A. E. Bradley,
Treasurer—P. J. Meyer

All members of the board of directors who were elected accepted the responsibility. With the election of new directors and officers, all committees which operated during the past year automatically will go out of office and new committees will be named by the president and secretary, with consent of the board of directors.

A new program of work will be laid out for the Association, Secretary Bradley said, and it is likely that a general meeting will be held to receive suggestions for a program of work. Most of the planks in the program adopted by the association previously have been completed, he said, and a new and more ambitious program will be launched.

PENALTY CAN'T BE WAIVED

County Treasurers Must Collect Delinquent Hail Penalty

County treasurers in the state have no authority to waive penalty and interest on delinquent hail taxes, it was stated today by Martin Hagen, manager of the state hail insurance department, who secured a ruling of the attorney-general's office after it was reported several treasurers were failing to collect the penalty and interest. County treasurers will be held to a strict accounting by the department, it was indicated, with the announcement of a ruling by John Thorpe, assistant attorney-general, in part as follows:

"Section 10 of the Hail Insurance Law, expressing the will of the legislature, specifically provides that on the first day of March a penalty of five per cent shall attach to delinquent hail taxes, and on the first day of June following, an additional penalty of two per cent, and on the first day of November an additional penalty of three per cent, with specific direction that the same shall be collected by the county treasurer of each county. It is, therefore, our opinion that the county treasurer has no power and no authority to refuse or fail to collect penalty or interest upon delinquent hail taxes. The same is true as to the county commissioners."

FARMER TAKES LIFE IN JAIL

Fargo, Nov. 28.—C. B. Forrest, 39, a farmer, of near Eris, North Dakota, committed suicide by slashing his throat with a sharp instrument at the Cass county jail this morning. Forrest is believed to have feared the result of his hearing before the sanity board, scheduled for today. A widow and two small children survive him.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists call it "Joint-Ease" because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only.

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain-racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect a low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stiffness in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in the evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

All druggists dispense it daily for about 60 cents a tube, as do first class druggists, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick. Mail orders filled, cash or C. O. D. Pope Laboratories, Hallowell, Maine.—Adv.

FAMILY OF 6 IS FOUND SAFE

Los Angeles, Nov. 28. Joseph Hertwig, former Aberdeen, S. D., cafe chief, at present employed in the same capacity in a Los Angeles cafe, last night expressed himself as mystified over reports current in the east that he and Mrs. Hertwig together with their four children, had been killed in an automobile accident.

Word of the alleged accident, purporting to have taken place in the mountains near here, reached Los Angeles last Saturday and caused an extensive check of city and county records, with negative results. Nor was any such family listed in the city directory, telephone directory or other available records.

Last night, however, armed with a specific street address, newspapermen resumed the hunt and found all six Hertwigs safe, sound and astonished over the anxiety of South Dakota friends. Neither they nor their automobile had been in any accident, they said.

Many Hear Foreign Radio, They Believe

Several Bismarck radio fans today reported that they believed they had picked up foreign stations last night in the international broadcasting experiment. Arnold Svendsgaard believes that he caught a French station.

R. E. Wenzel, who caught a foreign station, believed to be French, has written station WMC, Memphis, for verification of a report that it was a Mexico City station he heard. He heard "CYL" clearly, with a soprano solo, tenor solo and instrumental number following, but the station announcing itself as "CYL" was on a wave length of 320 meters and a station he caught yesterday was on a wave length of between 190 and 500 meters. If it was a Mexico City station, Mr. Wenzel said, it was not "CYL."

INDIAN PRINCE IS SWINDLED, JURY FINDS

London, Nov. 28. The jury in the Robinson conspiracy suit, involving an unnamed Indian prince, rendered a verdict this afternoon finding that a conspiracy had existed to extort money from the prince, known as "Mr. A." but that Robinson and Mrs. Robinson were not parties to it. The jury also found that "Mr. A." was induced to part with two checks for 150,000 pounds each through fear and alarm that his mind was unsettled and that the act was not free and voluntary. After these findings the jury again retired to consider further questions put to it by Justice Darling, the presiding judge.

"I had two patients that the doctors seemed unable to reach. One dose will convince with their medicine and in both cases advised the knife. A friend who had tried May's Wonderful Remedy for Stomach trouble proposed that I recommend it to my patients, which I did. Both are now entirely well. I am very glad that I was able to recommend it." ## LEGISLATURE TO HEAR FROM 2 GOVERNORS regarding the state mill will come before the senate. It is possible, also, that the Home Building Association, deficit tax may have to be increased, it being doubtful, in the opinion of some, if the present tax will yield sufficient revenue to clean up the debts of this industry as quickly as desired.

Moral Law

The usual bills to repeal the anti-cigarette law and establish a state tax on their sale are expected to appear. Since the prohibition act now in force has been amended at the request of dry forces it is held unlikely that there will be material change in the law. While it is felt that a fight which has been waged in two previous sessions may develop with respect to the state license law, so-called "moral laws" are not expected to play a heavy part in the legislative program. There is always the possibility, however, that some bill, may arise to take considerable time in the legislature, such as was the case with the present law prohibiting smoking in public dining rooms where women are served.

Educational Bills

Educational bills may also claim much attention. The last legislature authorized a school commission to investigate educational subjects, but because the resolution was not passed enough to enforce higher institutions, it is probable that the report of the commission will not prove as important as anticipated. Some members of the commission have felt that it was useless to make an exhaustive report under the limitations prescribed.

TO MAINTAIN GRAVE

Minot, N. D., Nov. 28. The commission of Minot formally accepted a check of $50, forwarded to the city by Lieutenant Governor Frank H. Baker, of Devils Lake, which will be used to give perpetual care to the grave of State Senator R. F. Baker in Rosehill cemetery. The money was donated by the various state legislators in North Dakota who knew Senator Baker in the legislature.

Tells of School Here

The school here has enrolled 112 girls, and applications for entry have to be turned down on account of lack of facilities. It is up to the state to get an up-to-date Indian school established, for some other way will go after it and take it away from us and this school will then be closed, he said. The cost per capita to the government for each pupil per year is $20,000. This school should be increased soon to include school work up to the high school, and for both boys and girls, then increased as required from time to time. The school now only has 100 acres of land, and it should have at least a whole section. The dormitory room should be increased to accommodate at least 100 more pupils, and other buildings in proportion.

Lionel White suggested the conversion of Fort Lincoln into an Indian school, and asked the speaker if he had made a survey of the buildings out there as to the feasibility of the proposition, and the speaker said he had, and that he had made a report on his findings to the department at Washington, and that he would recommend now the converting of the fort buildings into an Indian school. That the fort would provide all the land required and most all the buildings; and that this would be a happy solution of the matter.

Halls Ideas

Congressman Hall was the next speaker and spoke about the waste that was going on at Fort Lincoln, and that it was a shame to allow the buildings to be going to ruin, and that he would do all in his power to get both congress and the department at Washington to turn the property over to the Indian department for the establishment of a first-class Indian school at Bismarck. The congressman stated also on other matters closer and dearer to the heart of himself and his home, saying that he hoped to pass with such a good bill.

Senator P. T. Knox

Senator P. T. Knox was the next speaker, and suggested to Congressman Overt Olson that they take united action in the matter of assisting Congressman Hall at Washington, by introducing and passing a resolution, designating a congressional committee to pass a bill turning Fort Lincoln over to the Indian department for the establishment of the "Bismarck Indian School," as such as the legislature, and Senator Olson said he would be glad to do so.

But he started out with part of his speech, the second part, with "ladies and gentlemen," but the ladies did not respond at all, as it was a pure and simple congressional Tom Hall stag party, after the more serious parts were disposed of, and then the meeting was turned over to Lion Loubek, Durama and Hedden.

GUARANTYBODY IN 'RECESS'

Will Meet Again Before First of the Year

The Depositors Guaranty Fund Commission, after a two weeks recess here, adjourned late Wednesday and will hold a special meeting before the first of the year, at which time it is expected that final steps will be taken to pay the authorized dividend to depositors of banks closed before July 1, 1923.

The work of paying the dividend has been delayed beyond the expectation of the commission, because of the immense amount of detail work required and many claims of the condition of many claims. Among the examinations it has been necessary for the commission to make, according to members.

The commission has been required, according to members, to closely scrutinize claims to find out if the deposits were guaranteed within the law, and whether the claimant owed the bank and an offset should be made as required by law, and to consider numerous other questions with reference to a claim. Much correspondence with receivers of banks has been necessitated.

At the conclusion of the meeting today, however, it was stated that notices of acceptance of liability on claims or rejection or suspension were ready to be mailed out immediately to depositors, and that within two weeks, when the receivers' certificates are received, the commission will be able to make actual payment.

Chlorine Gas Heals Sore Gums

The reports of the U. S. army surgeons on the curative value of Chlorine Gas in certain diseases read like modern miracles. Out of over a thousand mixed cases 70 percent cures are reported.

It is gratifying to find that Chlorine Gas is now available to any person in his home. The gas is combined with other valuable healing agents in a liquid form and has been named Jo-Vex.

Most important of all, it has been found that this new product, Jo-Vex stops the treacherous gum disease known as Pyorrhea which is usually accompanied by sore and bleeding gums, loose teeth, etc., and which results in broken health and false teeth unless mastered.

Druggists are ordering Jo-Vex for local distribution. Finney's Drug Store has just received fresh shipments direct from the laboratory. If your druggist's supply is exhausted, the Jo-Vex Chemical Co., Akron, Ohio, will send a full size bottle with complete instructions upon receipt of $1.00.

FATHERS, SONS BANQUET HERE HELD SUCCESS

Nearly 500 Are Gathered Around the Banquet Board For Annual Feast

With the fourth annual Fathers and Sons banquet, held at the High School gymnasium Wednesday night, a local success, the "dad and dad" count will be furthered in other parts of the county during the year. J. M. Leavelle, boys welfare director, said today. There will be the Fathers and Sons day in the churches, a party during the Christmas holidays, and other events designed to bring fathers and sons together as companions in some event.

At the banquet Wednesday night almost 500 "dads" and boys seated around the banquet board. There were 225 boys between the ages of 12 and 20, inclusive, and almost an equal number of "dads" for them.

In a program of "Squires" of the College of Liberal Arts, University of North Dakota, in an inspiring address, he paid a glowing tribute to the Father and Sons movement, and urged that the companionship created around the banquet board be carried into everyday life.

W. L. Nueve presided at the banquet, and the program included: Invocation, Rev. W. L. Nueve; E. Vetter; group singing, led by Spencer Boice; cornet solo, Sidney Rigter; vocal duet, Henry Halverson and George Humphreys; saw solo by H. J. Duemeland.

FOLEY PILLS REACHED THE SORE SPOT. Mrs. Ellen Regard, South Fork, Pa., writes: "I had been suffering with my kidneys and nothing seemed to touch the aching spot until I procured FOLEY PILLS, with wonderful results."

FOLEY PILLS, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, gently and thoroughly flush and cleanse the kidneys and help to eliminate poisonous waste matter. Try a bottle today and you will be well pleased with the relief obtained. The use of FOLEY PILLS increases kidney activity. —Adv.

YOUTH

To young men who are wasting their precious time, and to parents who are neglecting their children's health, we recommend the following from "Forty Years in Newspaperdom," autobiography of Milton A. McRae, the newspaper publisher-genius:

"The brevity of life is a startling thing when analyzed. A generation is only a little more than 33 years. One-half of the human race dies before attaining the age of 17; one-quarter before the age of 7."

Complex problems have simple solutions. Milton A. McRae, in his autobiography, tells how he built up the St. Louis Chronicle in 1887. It was a penny paper, but handicapped because St. Louis did not use pennies for change in those days, a nickel being the smallest coin.

McRae ordered $10,000 worth of pennies from the mint and got them distributed by inducing local merchants to price goods at 49 and 98 cents instead of 50 cents and $1. With pennies in their pockets, people bought the penny paper. Its circulation in one year jumped from 7000 to 25,000.

RENT

New homes built in the first six months this year in the United States were enough to house 205,000 families, reports Department of Labor. Two and a half years at this rate would eliminate the "shortage of a million homes" that resulted from war conditions.

On the other hand, a lot of these new residences are simply replacing old ones, and accordingly do not apply on relieving the shortage. We still have an insufficiency of housing. When the problem is solved, no government bulletin will be necessary. Rents will reflect it.

MYSTERY

In Ireland they find more of the mysterious porcelain images of apes which have been dug up over there, 50 found since year 1780, in widely scattered places.

Chinese scholars claim these porcelain images are of Chinese origin, including their peculiar hieroglyphics, and date back to the year 500 B. C. How did they get to Ireland? Did Chinese explorers travel that far? The ancient history of China, as it comes to light, will be fascinating.

LOVE

The groom is 96 years old, the bride 74, the best man a young bachelor who has celebrated 104 birthdays. This, at a wedding in Beauvoir, Miss. All three are inmates of an old people's home.

The other day two aged men fought over the affections of an aged woman.

Youth has no monopoly on love, though most old people do their courting in memory.

MAYFLOWER

The Mayflower, historic ship that arrived in 1620, carried 102 passengers. Their living descendants now total over 6000, and 5200 of these have had their lineage authenticated by the Society of Mayflower Descendants.

Viewed unemotionally, the Mayflower was simply an immigrant ship. We're all immigrants if we go back far enough, and only a few generations for most of us.

PRIZEFIGHTER

Al Brown, flyweight boxer, is 5 feet 9 inches tall, but weighs only 112 pounds. Yet he's a very hard hitter.

The average man of the same height and weighing no more wouldn't step into the prize ring for a mint.

Brown has self-confidence which, in fighting as in life, can counteract a lot of handicaps—provided you haven't too much. Yet better to have too much than not enough.

"KIDNAPED"

At an auction in New York a man pays $10,000 for the original manuscript of "Kidnaped," by Robert Louis Stevenson. The author must have turned over in his grave. We don't know what he got for writing this book, but for "Treasure Island," his masterpiece, "Young Folks" magazine paid him only $3 a column. Today he could name his own price. Our generation has the money, but not the Stevensons.

LABOR

In 1920, out of every $1000 received by railroads, $554 was paid in wages and salaries. In 1923, only $443.

The average railroad employee has also been working harder than in 1920, in common with the general public.

The charts, as issued by the railroads show that the saving has largely gone into "net income."

FORESTS

Artificial lumber, made from waste fiber of sugar cane, weighs only a fourth as much as pine board, thus cutting transportation costs.

It is not impossible that the solution of our forestry problem will be worked out in the laboratory—synthetic timber. Asbestos shingles and concrete already have cut quite a hole in the lumber trade.

79 - WIVES

An old man with a record of 79 wives, 134 sons and 50 daughters! He's discovered in an African native village by census-takers. One of his neighbors has 110 wives and 93 children. Both of them are pikers compared with Solomon of old.

Apparently they haven't any high cost of living in Africa.

No other suffering compares with that of the man who knows it all when shown that he doesn't.

Central always has the last word. And that's "busy."

AN AIR-POST PASSENGER

(Philadelphia Bulletin)
The San Francisco man who wants to mail himself to New York by air is not discouraged by the fact that his 184 pounds avoirdupois demands $817.67 postage for the trip, but the postoffice in California is doubtful whether it can accept him for transportation, and has asked the postmaster general for a ruling on the matter.

In a country where so many people are willing to pay $25 or $50 or $100 for short airplane trips, the postoffice might find its facilities overtaxed, if the air service should be made available for passenger transportation, even at regular postal rates. There is a quite general curiosity to experience a lengthy air journey across the country, but the development of passenger service of that kind in the United States has been practically nil.

In Europe air routes couple up most of the leading cities, and some of them regularly carry not only passengers, but parcels. Air travel between London and Paris is heavy, and a great many Americans would hardly regard a visit to Europe as complete without crossing the channel by this means.

A regular line carrying passengers by air from Philadelphia to Washington and Norfolk would afford a scenic route of great interest, and might easily offer unusual opportunities to cover the historic area between Richmond and Gettysburg. Why does America lag so far behind Europe in commercial flying?

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Will you please say a riddle that doesn't rhyme?" asked Nancy.

"Why, bless your heart. Of course I will," said the Riddle Lady. "I'll tell you a story and you can guess what it is."

"I hope it is about something to eat," said Nancy.

"Well, it is," I'll tell you that much," smiled the Riddle Lady. "But I'm not so sure that you would care for it."

"What is the riddle?" asked Nick, who really liked riddles even better than cross-word puzzles.

"It's about six little Irish boys by the name of Green," said the Riddle Lady. "And because they were green and their names were Green, they lived in a green house. A funny house it was—quite long and narrow and not a window in it."

"Well, the six little Green boys grew and grew and grew and by and by they began to be crowded. They were so crowded they could scarcely move."

"And when they became crowded, they were quite uncomfortable. And the minute they became uncomfortable they began to blame it on each other."

"'Begorra, move over!' said Pat to Mike. 'I'm so crowded I can't move,' and he gave him a push with his shoulder."

"'Pat's crowded and he's pushing,' said Mike to Dennis. 'You'll have no more room here!' and he gave him a push with his shoulder. And to Pat's pushing he added a little pushing of his own."

"'Bejabbers!' said Dennis to Larry. 'It's the life that's being pushed out of me. If you don't move over, Larry, I'll be nothing but a lot of mush!' and he boined enough to move a bit."

"And to Pat's and Mike's pushing Dennis added a little pushing of his own. 'By that time poor Larry was almost flat. He had scarcely breath enough left to say to Barney, 'Please move over!' But just as he was about to add his own little bit of pushing to Pat's and Mike's and Dennis' pushing, and poor Barney was pushed against Jerry the last brother, until Jerry couldn't stand it at all!"

"He was right against the end of the little green house and with his five brothers all pushing against him as hard as ever they could, suddenly—pop! went the wall and out flew Jerry."

"Right after him came Barney and Dennis and Larry and Pat and Mike. 'And out they all got smashed!' And to Pat's pushing he added a little pushing of his own."

"'Bejabbers!' said Dennis to Larry. 'It's the life that's being pushed out of me. If you don't move over, Larry, I'll be nothing but a lot of mush!' and he boined enough to move a bit."

There's Nothing Like Getting an Early Start

Things are so quiet in Mexico you can hear oil stock paying dividends.

Every man likes a wife who flirts unless she is his own.

Only time some men want to stay at home is when friend wife wants them to take her to a show.

We would like to see a fight to the finish between the fool killer and the joy killer.

The great China question, as seen in most of our homes, is, "Who will wash the dishes?"

The man who makes a fool out of himself always claims someone else did it.

FRIDAY, NOV. 28.—You are destined to lead a very happy and beautiful life. Persons born this day are rightfully able to make many friends and you will find your intimate associates true and loyal.

Good health will remain with those who watch themselves carefully. Do not dissipate the energy which will enable you to profit through natural ability and personality.

Your enthusiasm over your experiences may lead you to exaggerate. Overcome this tendency for it does not fit in with the rest of your make-up.

POET'S CORNER

"LOVE AND I"

By Julia C. Moffitt
I love to stand in the door of time—
And view new beauties in the days ahead;

Life is eternal and youth is mine.
To have, to hold, and then I'm led
To new heights of vision; where
Love

And I walk hand in hand, o'er the Doorstep of faith and down life's
strand,
To the door of time where I love to stand.

I love to stand in the door of time—
And watch life's storms pass over—head;

The leaves of adversity go flying by.
The rain drops down and bedims my eye;
The lightning flash and the tempest
roar,
Pass by in a moment to return no
more;

While love and I walk hand in hand
To the door of time where I love to stand.

The Tangle

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON.

CONTINUED

Talked with Ruth Burke over the phone yesterday. She at least seems to be very happy. Walter Burke seems very proud of her and lets her do anything she wants to.

Mrs. Atherton said to me yesterday that Ruth had told her that she was still going to keep up that lingerie shop. I don't see how Burke can do this for you know he is a multi-millionaire. Of course, Ruth has made a great success of the shop, but Mrs. Atherton said that already she has heard much gossip and censure of Burke for allowing his wife to work. Ruth spends at least four hours a day there.

It was all very well for Ruth to do it when she had it, but now when she can have everything she wants in the world it looks as though Burke was rather mean and stingy.

People are saying that he furnished the capital to get the thing started. I do not know anything about that. Here is going to have one of the most successful of the Acme. Now that I am going to leave this place it rather tugs at my heart. After all, they have been mighty fine to me, and I am taking on a big load of responsibility, a load which already makes my back ache although I have not done much but think about lifting it.

Just before I came away Leslie told me to give you her best love. She says that she thinks now she will probably see you more often than she did when you were so near us here.

Until I see you, JACK.

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

I do not know just why I am writing you to ask you the truth about a matter that has come to my attention before I mention it to John. Except that I have a very forgiving disposition I certainly would not do this because in your letter to me you virtually told me that there was no place for me in my son's home.

It is a dreadful thing to grow old and helpless and know that you are a burden to those who love you. I know that you brought into the world in travail and pain has left you for another and that that other despises you.

However, my Bible has told me that one should forgive even unto seventy times seven and so I am writing to you, Leslie, to know if there is any truth in this gossip which—while it is not anything detrimental to your character—is but something of which my son would greatly disapprove.

I saw Priscilla Bradford the other day for the first time since she left the hotel. She has been out of town and is now on her way to a cousin's in New York. She had not expected to go there. Indeed she had thought to stay with the cousin to whom she had gone directly from here but had found that cousin had changed greatly and resented any suggestion or criticism about her home or her family, consequently Priscilla decided she would not stay with her any longer, however much she would be missed.

Mrs. Anderson, of whom I have really objected (she is as good as any hilding can be), has been going out with me somewhere every day to tea (she says it breaks into our day) and yesterday we went to the Royal.

As we sat down at the table I looked up and right at the next table sat Priscilla, who immediately came over to our table and said she would take her tea with us.

Miss Anderson was very rude. "You will probably have something to say to Miss Bradford," she said, "that you will not wish to have my strangers hear. While you are drinking your tea I will go across the street and do a little shopping that I have wanted to do for some time."

You can easily see the maliciousness of this remark. Priscilla called my attention to it, after Miss Anderson had gone, saying that Miss Anderson wanted me to understand that I worked her like a galley slave and never let her go out or do anything for herself.

Priscilla said that she never would have left me if it had not been for Miss Anderson and I told her of course as a companion that I liked her much better than I did my nurse but that I could not ask her to do many of the things that I could ask of Miss Anderson.

Well, to make a long story short, Priscilla asked me if I knew that you owned half of the lingerie shop with Mrs. Burke. I told her it could not be possible and she said that she was in the shop the other day and that she heard Mrs. Burke talking to someone in her office and she said: "No, I do not think that either Mrs. Prescott or myself would care to sell the shop. At one time we thought we would, but we are just now making other arrangements."

HE'LL CREATE A SENSATION

By Albert Apple

The exploits of Herr Flettner will shortly be plastered all over the front pages of American newspapers, provided his present plans do not fizzle.

Flettner is a German, now living in Holland, who has invented a windship or sailing ship without any sails. That sounds like World Vaudeville. But wait a minute.

This windship isn't a wild dream. It has been demonstrated so satisfactorily that it is the scientific sensation of Europe. Big steamship companies expect to use his invention on freighters, displacing coal.

Instead of sails, Flettner uses huge cylinders shaped like smokestacks. These revolve and, in some magical way not disclosed, harness the terrific power of air currents.

Berlin will erect similar cylinders to generate electricity for lighting streets and so on.

The possibilities of such an invention are almost beyond the imagination. Industry and transportation would be revolutionized, wind furnishing the power now obtained from coal.

It seems too good to be true. And possibly it is. But Flettner's invention has the marks of authenticity, both in its demonstrations to date and in the big corporations that have interested themselves in it.

Stupendous power is going to waste in the air. The force that blows your hat off, uproots trees and turns the windmill could, properly harnessed, relieve man of a large part of his labor. Our generation has neglected the power of the winds, which for many centuries were enslaved to carry man's commerce on the seas.

A man in Cleveland, O., rigged up weathervanes that generated sufficient electricity to light his home. This is a faint shadow of what could be done on a gigantic scale.

The power of the tides also awaits harnessing. So does the fierce heat of the sun. We have barely begun to use the power that nature has placed all about us.

But winds and tides and sun's heat will become our slaves in time—no doubt, long before scientists discover how to release the energy stored in the atom or finish drilling a hole deep into the earth to tap the interior heat.

New York, Nov. 28.—Poverty stalks both in Hell's Kitchen and the East Side. Crime breeds in both places. Both are bordered with waterfront rooming houses and tenements. And there ends the parallel between New York's west side and east side tenement districts.

You may walk for blocks along Eighth and Ninth and Tenth avenues and not find a music store. I know one fellow in Hell's Kitchen who shopped an hour before he could find a violin string. At night there is gloominess throughout the Kitchen. Tired men and tired women go to bed early there.

On the East Side, especially along Avenue A, you will find music stores crowded four and five to a block and all prospering. You will find little shops selling beautiful trinkets and supplies for painting and drawing. You will hear song and laughter. There is something quickening to the pulse about it all.

New blood in old worlds is being fused constantly into the East Side. Most of the population of Hell's Kitchen represents the third and fourth generation of residents there.

Ten years ago in Cincinnati I interviewed Gunboat Smith at the Munro Hotel. I wanted to know what he thought of the ministers who were trying to stop his fight with Jim Flynn. His answers furnished one of the most colorful interviews I ever had.

Just before I got back to the office Frank Hohl, notorious bandit, had up two banks, killed a policeman and was himself killed, all within an hour or so. The interview with Gunboat was crowded out of the paper. Gunboat Smith then was perhaps the leading "white hope" in the prizefight game. Money came easy and he lived easy.

The other night I saw him keeping fight fans in line at Madison Square Garden, where he once was a slave and never let her go out or do anything for herself.

Maybe some of the ministers back in Cincinnati can find a topic for a sermon in this little story.

Judge Richard T. Morrison, ex-surgate of New York county, who just died at 76. For 31 years he lived at the Grand Hotel. That is believed a record for continued residence at one hotel.

His hobby was to collect newspapers containing accounts of noted legal trials. So assiduous was he that when he died they stood in great piles, seven and eight feet high, around his home.

Miss Anderson was very rude. "You will probably have something to say to Miss Bradford," she said, "that you will not wish to have my strangers hear. While you are drinking your tea I will go across the street and do a little shopping that I have wanted to do for some time."

You can easily see the maliciousness of this remark. Priscilla called my attention to it, after Miss Anderson had gone, saying that Miss Anderson wanted me to understand that I worked her like a galley slave and never let her go out or do anything for herself.

Priscilla said that she never would have left me if it had not been for Miss Anderson and I told her of course as a companion that I liked her much better than I did my nurse but that I could not ask her to do many of the things that I could ask of Miss Anderson.

At one time we thought we would, but we are just now making other arrangements."

FABLES ON HEALTH
WINTER VEGETABLES

This is the season of the year when the average housewife begins to ask herself: What about vegetables?

Most of the seasonal fresh vegetables are off the market and yet a vegetable is desired with the meal. Of course, had she been a thrifty housewife like Mrs. Jones of Anytown she might have had a supply of canned things on hand, and home-canned articles are likely to hit the right spot when the winter days arrive.

Now, from the standpoint of canned vegetables, there can be no choice between the fresh and the canned variety, so far as health value are concerned. Tomatoes are the only vegetables known to retain vitamins when thoroughly cooked.

Most towns, however, can supply parsnips, carrots and turnips throughout the winter months, as these vegetables lend themselves best to cold storage.

Also they are high in vitamins.

Daughter of Former Local People Weds

Miss Dorothy Dennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dennett, former well known residents of Bismarck, but now living in Washington, D. C., and Patton Wise Slomp, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Big Stone Gap, Va., were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, at 5:30 o'clock, in Bethlehem Chapel of the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, Washington, D. C.

The Rt. Rev. James T. Freeman, bishop of Washington, officiated at the marriage and the bride was given away by her father. She wore a lovely gown of flax and hand embroidered net, with a court train of tulle, and over her lovely blonde hair was arranged a tulle veil held in place with a chaplet of tiny leaves outlined in seed pearls. Her bouquet was a shower of lilies of the valley.

Lorraine is at his best in the character of Gen. Orlando Jackson and Cullen Landis handles the leading man's role to perfection. While Noah Berry gives his usual excellent performance in a heavy role, Mary Astor and Phyllis Haver are well cast as the sisters, Flora and Lucy.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

YOUTH
To young men who are wasting their precious time, and to parents who are neglecting their children's health, we recommend the following from "Forty Years in Newspaperdom," autobiography of Milton A. McRae, the newspaper publisher-genius:

"The brevity of life is a startling thing when analyzed. A generation is only a little more than 33 years. One-half of the human race dies before attaining the age of 17; one-quarter before the age of 7."

Complex problems have simple solutions. Milton A. McRae, in his autobiography, tells how he built up the St. Louis Chronicle in 1887. It was a penny paper, but handicapped because St. Louis did not use pennies for change in those days, a nickel being the smallest coin.

McRae ordered $10,000 worth of pennies from the mint and got them distributed by inducing local merchants to price goods at 49 and 98 cents instead of 50 cents and $1. With pennies in their pockets, people bought the penny paper. Its circulation in one year jumped from 7000 to 25,000.

RENT
New homes built in the first six months this year in the United States were enough to house 205,000 families, reports the Department of Labor. Two and a half years at this rate would eliminate the "shortage of a million homes" that resulted from war conditions.

On the other hand, a lot of these new residences are simply replacing old ones, and accordingly do not apply on relieving the shortage. We still have an insufficiency of housing. When the problem is solved, no government bulletin will be necessary. Rents will reflect it.

MYSTERY
In Ireland they find more of the mysterious porcelain images of apes which have been dug up over there, 50 found since year 1780, in widely scattered places.

Chinese scholars claim these porcelain images are of Chinese origin, including their peculiar hieroglyphics, and date back to the year 500 B. C. How did they get to Ireland? Did Chinese explorers travel that far? The ancient history of China, as it comes to light, will be fascinating.

LOVE
The groom is 96 years old, the bride 74, the best man a young bachelor who has celebrated 101 birthdays. This, at a wedding in Beauvoir, Miss. All three are inmates of an old people's home.

The other day two aged men fought over the affections of an aged woman.

Youth has no monopoly on love, though most old people do their courting in memory.

MAYFLOWER
The Mayflower, historic ship that arrived in 1620, carried 102 passengers. Their living descendants now total over 6000, and 5200 of these have had their lineage authenticated by the Society of Mayflower Descendants.

Viewed unemotionally, the Mayflower was simply an immigrant ship. We're all immigrants if we go back far enough, and only a few generations for most of us.

PRIZEFIGHTER
Al Brown, flyweight boxer, is 5 feet 9 inches tall, but weighs only 112 pounds. Yet he's a very hard hitter.

The average man of the same height and weighing no more wouldn't step into the prize ring for a mint.

Brown has self-confidence which, in fighting as in life, can counteract a lot of handicaps—provided you haven't too much. Yet better to have too much than not enough.

"KIDNAPED"
At an auction in New York a man pays $10,000 for the original manuscript of "Kidnaped," by Robert Louis Stevenson. The author must have turned over in his grave. We don't know what he got for writing this book, but for "Treasure Island," his masterpiece, "Young Folks" magazine paid him only $3 a column. Today he could name his own price. Our generation has the money, but not the Stevensons.

LABOR
In 1920, out of every $1000 received by railroads, $554 was paid in wages and salaries. In 1923, only $443.

The average railroad employee has also been working harder than in 1920, in common with the general public.

The charts, as issued by the railroads show that the saving has largely gone into "net income."

FORESTS
Artificial lumber, made from waste fiber of sugar cane, weighs only a fourth as much as pine board, thus cutting transportation costs.

It is not impossible that the solution of our forestry problem will be worked out in the laboratory—synthetic timber. Asbestos shingles and concrete already have cut quite a hole in the lumber trade.

79 WIVES
An old man with a record of 79 wives, 134 sons and 50 daughters. He's discovered in an African native village by census-takers. One of his neighbors has 110 wives and 93 children. Both of them are pikers compared with Solomon of old.

Apparently they haven't any high cost of living in Africa.

No other suffering compares with that of the man who knows it all when shown that he doesn't.

Central always has the last word. And that's "busy."

AN AIR-POST PASSENGER

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

The San Francisco man who wants to mail himself to New York by air is not discouraged by the fact that his 184 pounds avoirdupois demands $817.07 postage for the trip, but the postoffice in California is doubtful whether it can accept him for transportation, and has asked the postmaster general for a ruling on the matter.

In a country where so many people are willing to pay $25 or $50 or $100 for short airplane trips, the postoffice might find its facilities overtaxed, if the air service should be made available for passenger transportation, even at regular postal rates. There is a quite general curiosity to experience a lengthy air journey across the country, but the development of passenger service of that kind in the United States has been practically nil.

In Europe air routes couple up most of the leading cities, and some of them regularly carry not only passengers, but parcels. Air travel between London and Paris is heavy, and a great many Americans would hardly regard a visit to Europe as complete without crossing the channel by this means.

A regular line carrying passengers by air from Philadelphia to Washington and Norfolk would afford a scenic route of great interest, and might easily offer unusual opportunities to cover the historic route between Richmond and Gettysburg. Why does America lag so far behind Europe in commercial flying?

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Will you please say a riddle that doesn't rhyme?" asked Nancy.

"Why, bless your heart, Of course I will," said the Riddle Lady. "I'll tell you a story and you can guess what it is."

"I hope it is about something to eat," said Taffy.

"Well, it is. I'll tell you that much," smiled the Riddle Lady. "But I'm not sure that you would care for it much."

"What is the riddle?" asked Nick, who really liked riddles even better than cross-word puzzles.

"It's about six little Irish boys by the name of Green," said the Riddle Lady. "And because they were green and their names were Green, they lived in a green house. A funny house it was—quite long and narrow and not a window in it."

"Well, the six little Green boys grew and grew and grew and by and by they began to be crowded. They were so crowded they could scarcely move."

"And when they became crowded, they were quite uncomfortable. And the minute they became uncomfortable they began to blame it on each other."

"Bogorra, move over!" said Pat to Mike. "I'm so crowded I can't move, and he gave him a push with his shoulder."

"Pat's crowded and he's pushing," said Mike to Dennis. "You'll have to move over or I'll get smashed." And to Pat's pushing he added a little pushing of his own.

"Bejabber!" said Dennis to Larry. "It's the life that's being pushed out of me. If you don't move over, Larry, I'll be nothing but a lot of mud." Do he kind enough to move a bit?

"And to Pat's and Mike's pushing Dennis added a little pushing of his own."

"It's that time poor Larry was almost flat. He had scarcely breath enough left to say to Barney, 'Please move over.' But just the same he added his own little bit of pushing to Pat's and Mike's and Dennis' pushing, and poor Barney was pushed against Jerry the last brother, until Jerry couldn't stand it at all!"

"He was right against the end of the little green house and with his five brothers all pushing against him as hard as ever they could, suddenly—pop! went the wall and out flew Jerry."

"Right after him came Barney and Dennis and Larry and Pat and Mike. And what do you s'pose?"

"They all landed right in the middle of a pot of boiling water."

"Ouch!" cried Barney. "Now see what you have done!"

"Ouch!" cried Larry to Barney. "Now just see what you've done!"

"Ouch!" cried Barney to Dennis. "Now see what you've done! Stupid!"

"And so it went on. Dennis blamed Mike and Mike blamed Pat. What was as it should be, for Pat had started it all."

"Isn't it just like people to blame their troubles on each other?"

"But they boiled and boiled, these six brothers did, and after while when dinner was served, little Johnny ate them up."

"I know what they were. Six green peas," said Nick.

And he got the prize.

POET'S CORNER

"LOVE AND I"

By Julia C. Moffit
I love to stand in the door of time
And view new beauties in the days ahead;

Life is eternal and youth is mine.
To have, to hold, and then I'm led
To new heights of vision; where
Love

And I walk hand in hand, o'er the Doorstep of faith and down life's strand.

To the door of time where I love to stand.
—And watch life's storms pass over
head;

The leaves of adversity go flying by.
The rain drops down and bedims my
eye;
The lightning flash and the tempest
pass by in a moment to return no
more;

While love and I walk hand in hand
To the door of time where I love to stand.

The Tangle

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON, CONTINUED

Talked with Ruth Burke over the phone yesterday. She at least seems to be very happy. Walter Burke seems very proud of her and lets her do anything she wants to.

Mrs. Atherton said to me yesterday that Ruth had told her that she was still going to keep up that lingerie shop. I don't see how Burke can do this for you know he is a multi-millionaire. Of course, Ruth has made a great success of the shop, but Mrs. Atherton said that already she has heard much gossip and censure of Burke for allowing his wife to work. Ruth spends at least four hours a day there.

It was all very well for Ruth to do it when she had to, but now when she can have everything she wants in the world it looks as though Burke was rather mean and stingy.

People are saying that he furnished the capital to get the thing started. I do not know anything about that but I do know that someone furnished the money, for Leslie kept six thousand dollars in her wall safe for her until she was able to get things going. We had kind of a mix-up about it, and I was in the wrong as usual.

The gossip says, however, that Burke sent her this money purely as a business investment, and now he wants to give it up even if his wife must give a good deal of her time to it to keep it going. I can't understand this in any man.

I know I would feel pretty mean to let Leslie carry on a business when my income is what it is now, and Burke has ten times as much as I.

By the way, did you ever hear that Harry Ellington had a sister? As well as I knew him I had no idea of it. Ruth Burke says she is a very lovely girl. She is now staying with the Burkes, but I think she is going over to Leslie's. The girl wants to be independent and Leslie thinks she will very soon have to have someone to begin teaching little Jack.

I am learning new things about women every day. Here is this one about Leslie and Ruth conspiring to do something for the sister of Harry Ellington, whom Leslie hated like poison and who humiliated Ruth and nearly broke her heart.

I am sending Mrs. Atherton to Pittsburgh tomorrow and I am going over to have dinner with Ruth and Walter tonight and look the girl over, and if I think she will do, I am going to send Zoe Ellington—that's her name—with her.

I hate to let Mrs. Atherton tackle Pittsburgh and the plant alone, as I am afraid she is going to have some personal trouble in that city. It looks to me as though it were waiting for her. I'll tell you all about it when you get here.

Must stop now for I am going to have a wind-up conference this morning with the directors of the Acme. Now that I am going to leave this place it rather tugs at my heart. After all, they have been mighty fine to me, and I am taking on a big load of responsibility, a load which already makes my back ache although I have not done much but think about lifting it.

Just before I came away Leslie told me to give you her best love. She says that she thinks now she will probably see you more often than she did when you were so near us here.

Until I see you, JACK.

HE'LL CREATE A SENSATION

By Albert Apple

The exploits of Herr Flettner will shortly be plastered all over the front pages of American newspapers, provided his present plans do not fizzle.

Flettner is a German, now living in Holland, who has invented a windship or sailing ship without any sails. That sounds like World Vaudeville. But wait a minute.

This windship isn't a wild dream. It has been demonstrated so satisfactorily that it is the scientific sensation of Europe. Big steamship companies expect to use his invention on freighters, displacing coal.

Instead of sails, Flettner uses huge cylinders shaped like smokestacks. These revolve and, in some magical way not disclosed, harness the terrific power of air currents.

Berlin will erect similar cylinders to generate electricity for lighting streets and so on.

The possibilities of such an invention are almost beyond the imagination. Industry and transportation would be revolutionized, wind furnishing the power now obtained from coal.

It seems too good to be true. And possibly it is. But Flettner's invention has the marks of authenticity, both in its demonstrations to date and in the big corporations that have interested themselves in it.

Stupendous power is going to waste in the air. The force that blows your hat off, uproots trees and turns the windmill could, properly harnessed, relieve man of a large part of his labor. Our generation has neglected the power of the winds, which for many centuries were enslaved to carry man's commerce on the seas.

A man in Cleveland, O., rigged up weathervanes that generated sufficient electricity to light his home. This is a faint shadow of what could be done on a gigantic scale.

The power of the tides also awaits harnessing. So does the fierce heat of the sun. We have barely begun to use the power that nature has placed all about us.

But winds and tides and sun's heat will become our slaves in time—no doubt, long before scientists discover how to release the energy stored in the atom or finish drilling a hole deep into the earth to tap the interior heat.

New York, Nov. 28.—Poverty stalks both in Holt's Kitchen and the East Side. Crime breeds in both places. Both are bordered with waterfront romance and wharf ugliness. And there ends the parallel between New York's west side and east side tenement districts.

You may walk for blocks along Eighth Ninth and Tenth avenues and not find a music store. I know one fellow in Holt's Kitchen who shopped an hour before he could find a violin string. At night there is gloominess throughout the Kitchen. Fired men and tired women go to bed early there.

On the East Side, especially along Avenue A, you will find music stores crowded four and five to a block and all prospering. You will find little shops selling beautiful trinkets and supplies for painting and drawing. You will hear song and laughter. There is something quickening to the pulse about it all.

New blood from old worlds is being fused constantly into the East Side. Most of the population of Holt's Kitchen represents the third and fourth generation of residents there.

Ten years ago in Cincinnati I interviewed Gunboat Smith at the Munro Hotel. I wanted to know what he thought of the ministers who were trying to stop his fight with Jim Flynn. His answers furnished one of the most colorful interviews I ever had.

Just as I got back to the office Frank Hohl, notorious bandit, held up two banks, killed a policeman and was himself killed, all within an hour or so. The interview with Gunboat Smith was for the prizefighting "white hope" in the prizefight game. Money came easy and he lived easy.

The other night I saw him keeping fight fans in line at Madison Square Garden, where he was the attraction that drew great throngs.

Maybe some of the ministers back in Cincinnati can find a topic for a sermon in this little story.

Judge Richard T. Morrison, ex-surrogate of New York county, has just died at 76. For 31 years he lived at the Grand Hotel. That is believed a record for continued residence at one hotel.

His hobby was to collect newspapers containing accounts of noted legal trials. So assiduous was he that when he died they stood in great piles, seven and eight feet high, around his room.

—JAMES W. DEAN.

I have a very forgiving disposition I certainly would not do this because in your letter to me you virtually told me that there was no place for me in my son's home.

It is a dreadful thing to grow old and helpless and know that you are a burden to those who love you. I brought into the world in travail and pain and I will go across the street and go a little shopping that I have wanted to do for some time.

You can easily see the maliciousness of this remark. Priscilla called my attention to it after Miss Anderson had gone, saying that Miss Anderson wanted me to understand that I worked her like a galley slave and never let her go out or do anything for herself.

Priscilla said that she never would have left me if it had not been for Miss Anderson and I told her of course as a companion that I liked her much better than I did my nurse but that I could not ask her to do many of the things that I could ask of Miss Anderson.

Well, to make a long story short, Priscilla asked me if I knew that you owned half of the lingerie shop with Mrs. Burke. I told her it could not be possible and she said that she was in the shop the other day and that she heard Mrs. Burke talking to someone in her office and she said: "No, I do not think that either Mrs. Prescott or myself would care to sell the shop. At one time we thought we would, but we are just now making other arrangements."

As we sat down at the table I

WINTER VEGETABLES

This is the season of the year when the average housewife begins to ask herself: What about vegetables?

Most of the seasonable fresh vegetables are off the market and get a vegetable is desired with the meal.

Of course, had she been a thrifty housewife like Mrs. Jones of Anytown she might have had a supply of canned things on hand, and home-canned articles are likely to hit the right spot when the winter days arrive.

Now, from the standpoint of canned vegetables, there can be no choice between the fresh and the canned variety, so far as health values are concerned. Tomatoes are the only vegetables known to retain vitamins when thoroughly cooked.

Most towns, however, can supply parsnips, carrots and turnips throughout the winter months, as these vegetables lend themselves best to cold storage.

Also they are high in vitamins.

PENN BEATS CORNELL TEAM

Great Quaker Team Wins By 20 to 0 Score

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—A dazzling aerial attack gave Pennsylvania a 22-0 triumph Thursday over her ancient foe, Cornell. Fifty-six thousand spectators saw the Quakers conquer the Ithaca team for the first time in four years, finish their first season without defeat in 16 years and strengthen their claim to the mythical football championship of the east.

Outrushed by the powerful big red team, which registered seven first downs at straight football to one for the Quakers, in a final fight to retrieve lost prestige, Pennsylvania achieved her victory solely through an overhead drive which was supplemented by all-around alertness and brilliant generalship.

Pass Game Effective
Launching their aerial drive with lightning swiftness in the second quarter, the Quakers scored two touchdowns in quick succession on three long forward passes, all engineered by Captain Red McGraw. The first came on a 40 yard heave which George Thayer, end, plucked from a circle of would be tacklers on the Cornell goal line. The second score came a few minutes later when Jesse Douglass, speedy halfback, took a short pass over the line from McGraw and dodged 40 yards through the big red defense to reach the final chalk mark.

The Quaker added a third touchdown in the third quarter when Douglass picked up a Cornell pass out of the air on his own 10 yard line and raced 60 yards crossing the goal line.

FLICKERS LOSE AT CLEVELAND

Fall Before John Carroll College Team

Cleveland, Nov. 28.—In a game marked by the excellent work of Gene Stringer, Cleveland, John Carroll university defeated the University of North Dakota football team, 28-0, yesterday. The Flickertails put up a strong defense but were no match for the headier play and swift backfield of the Indians. Stringer gave an exhibition of line plunging and open field running seldom if ever seen on the local gridiron. It was his thrilling dash through the line for 53 yards in the first few minutes of play that netted the Carrolls their first touchdown. Fifteen times he carried the ball on line plays, gaining 123 yards. He was mainly responsible for the first seven downs rolled up by his team and was on the receiving end of 2 forward passes, 1 of which netted 19 yards.

Carroll made 10 first downs to the westerners' 2, and connected 7 passes in 22 attempts, for 108 yards gain. The North Dakotans completed 3 passes out of 19 attempts but two of these lost territory.

Sixty-five yards of penalties were imposed on Carroll and only one, for five yards, for offense, was suffered by the visitors.

Billy Evans Says

Walter Johnson, it appears, is through as a big leaguer.

The famous pitcher is not passing out through lack of ability. He intends to take a flier as a manager.

Recently Johnson purchased the Oakland, Calif., team of the Pacific Coast League. His present intention is to manage and pitch occasionally.

Unless something should turn up between now and spring to make Johnson change his plans, he will stand out as one of the few star players to quit the big show while still great.

It is a failing of most stars that they are the last to recognize the fact that they are through. Often a bad ending dims much of their former greatness.

Fielder Jones retired as player and manager when he was one of the most sought after men in baseball.

In a sense the retirement of Jones was forced rather than voluntary. The cause of his passing up the majors was a matter of finance.

Feeling that he had been instrumental in the great showing of the Chicago White Sox, Jones, after one of his big years, set a price on his services that the Chicago club couldn't see.

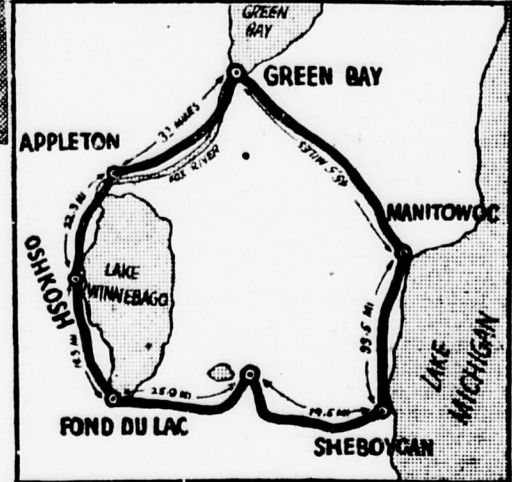

In all probability when Jones handed the club the ultimatum that he was through unless he got his price, he figured he would get it. Certainly it was reasonable to suppose that his club would see it in that way.

Instead of giving Jones his price the Chicago club signed another manager. Being under reserve as a player Jones had no way out. He simply retired.

The case of Johnson is much different. One of baseball's biggest cards, he passes out of the picture fresh from his world series triumph. If I was the owner of the Washington club I would certainly hate

Wisconsin Addicts Play 63 Holes on Seven Different Courses, Covering 203 Miles in One Day

By NEA Service.

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 28.—Here's a new goal for the marathon golf fiend. Two local stars, J. D. Steele, and H. L. Davis, recently played 63 holes of golf over seven different courses in seven different localities, covering a traveling distance of 203 miles, and all in one normal day.

The demon marathoners started from here at dawn for Oshkosh, played nine holes there, motored to Fond du Lac, for nine more, then to Elkhart Lake, Sheboygan, Manitowish, and Green Bay in the order named.

By now the sun was sinking in the west. A whizzing motor brought Steele and Davis back to their starting point, and in the gathering twilight they completed the last nine holes of their ordeal over their home course.

The average playing speed for a round was an hour and 10 minutes. Incidentally Davis beat his opponent by 10 strokes in medal play and was one up in match.

They arrived in Tulsa 33 years ago when it was an Indian village of 1000 inhabitants. Dr. Kennedy married a princess of the Osage tribe and their children are all enthusiastic golfers.

The Osage Indians owned untold miles of land which for years has been pouring out oil which has made many Osage chiefs and princesses among the most wealthy citizens in Oklahoma and it is from these that golf has won many a supporter. Jim Kennedy holds the amateur record for the Tulsa course, a 69.

A gallery of 500, including many with Osage blood, followed Walter Hagen and Joe Kirkwood when they played a match here recently.

hero, beloved by fandom. He's riding high. Another year might make a big difference.

In the Coast League Johnson will be a decided novelty for the fans. He will be a big card. His reputation alone will carry him over for a time.

Johnson is far from through as a pitcher. Given a four or five-day rest, he is hard to beat. There is a possibility that his pitching might be a sensation out there.

If Johnson in his new role can keep his club up in the race in one season as a manager, manager and pitcher, he will make many times in excess of his salary as a mere player.

Unquestionably Johnson has retired to lose so effective a pitcher as Johnson, despite his many years of service.

If I was the manager of the club it wouldn't make me smile. I rather think Stanley Harris is already worrying over his pitching staff for next season.

Johnson won 23 games for Washington last season. It isn't an easy task to dig up a twirler so capable on short notice.

But from Johnson's standpoint I think it is most wise. In reaching such a decision, Johnson has simply used some of the judgment that has made him one of the game's greatest pitchers.

Johnson at the present time, because of the dramatic ending of the recent world series, is a national

INDIANS SHOOT GOLF OVER PLAINS CHIEFS HUNTED ON

By NEA Service

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 28.—Big chiefs and Indian princesses of the Osage tribe—wealthiest of all the American Indian clans—are as fond of golf as people of any other race and a number of these leaders of the Osages are members of the Tulsa Country Club of this city.

Over plains which their ancestors hunted, many Osage Indians of the present generation are chasing golf balls. The Tulsa course, 18 holes was constructed at an expense of $200,000 and is easily the finest course in that section of the southwest and compares favorably with any championship test of golf.

Jim Kennedy, Tulsa's foremost amateur golfer, is one-half Osage Indian. His father, Dr. James Kennedy, arrived in Tulsa 33 years ago when it was an Indian village of 1000 inhabitants. Dr. Kennedy married a princess of the Osage tribe and their children are all enthusiastic golfers.

ALL-AMERICANS NO. 1.—(Football) Adenoids McNutt: Who agreed with the experts that his alma mater had a terrible team and was down-right lucky to lose but seven of its eight games.

Ida Clair: Who admitted before going to the game that she knew nothing about football and then heroically refrained from asking why a touchdown should count more than a touchback.

Rufus Ruffer: Quarterback of the 1905 Guided Avalanche, who sat through three full quarters of the homecoming game this year without once criticizing a play.

Coach Grumble: Who gave vent to the historic utterance, "How can you expect me to win games with the low salaries they pay my boys?"

Professor Spinach: Who confessed that stadiums were built to be filled by cash customers and not as monuments to institutions of learning.

Walter Seamus: Who came right out and said the eleven players he picked on the All-America were just nine boys who wore their diaper jackets beautifully but otherwise were not so hot.

Old Eagle Eye Pete: Who turned over a 16-page report on how to beat the Swearing Generals and added a postscript saying, "This business of scouting is all a lot of wienerschnitzel."

J. Percival Showoff: Who, although wearing a new $186.50 raccoon coat, declined to go down on the field between halves and take part in the snake dance.

Alexander Hardboiled: Who told his wife he would not go to the game if he had to carry one of those silly looking pennants and who DID NOT GO.

JAPAN IS NOT WAITING FOR PHILIPPINES

Manila, Nov. 28.—M. Inouye, member of the house of representatives of Japan, who is here to investigate business conditions in the hemp region of Davao province where Japanese have large interests, has declared that Japan had no intention of grabbing the Philippines in the event that America grants them independence.

"As a member of the parliament of Japan, I know my country has never entertained a thought of adding the Philippines to her colonies," said M. Inouye. "All talk about Japan taking over the Philippines the moment the United States grants them independence is absolutely groundless."

"I know you are capable of running your own government, but I think you should first develop your natural resources because, when a country is economically self-supporting, she will be able to stand on her own feet. As managing director of the South Islands Association of Japan, I am here to foster better relations with your people."

ABOLITION OF WASTE HELD TO BE STEP AHEAD

Secretary Hoover, in Annual Report, Tells of Progress In This Line

ALSO ON EMPLOYMENT

Steps Taken by Government To Reduce Unemployment Told by Secretary

Washington, Nov. 28.—"Elimination of national waste," is the keynote of Secretary Hoover's annual report, made public at the Department of Commerce today. Under this head Mr. Hoover reviews the accomplishments of the department during the first three years of the present administration, notably in the fields of unemployment, seasonal construction, coal, superpower, standardization, simplified practice, cooperative marketing, and the reduction of housing costs. Trade association activities are discussed from the same angle. The Conference on Street and Highway Safety, to be held at the Department next month, is referred to as an effort to cope with "the most challenging of all wastes—the waste of human life."

"A definite constructive national program has been developed for the elimination of waste in our economic system," says Mr. Hoover. "The need is plain. The American standard of living is the product of high wages to producers and low prices to consumers. The road to national progress lies in increasing real wages through proportionately lower prices. The one and only way is to improve methods and processes and to eliminate waste. Just as twenty years ago we undertook nationwide conservation of natural resources, so now we must undertake nationwide elimination of waste. Regulation and laws are of but minor effect on these fundamental things. But by well-directed economic forces, by cooperation in the community, we can not only maintain American standards of living—we can raise them."
Far From Perfect
"We have the highest ingenuity and efficiency in the operation of our industry and commerce of any nation in the world. Yet our economic machine is far from perfect. Wastes are legion. There are wastes which arise from wide-spread unemployment during depressions, and from speculation and overproduction in booms; wastes attributable to labor turnover and the stress of labor conflicts; wastes due to intermittent and seasonal production, as in the coal and construction industries; vast wastes from strictures in commerce due to inadequate transportation, such as the lack of sufficient terminals; wastes caused by excessive variations in products; wastes in materials, arising from lack of efficient processes; wastes by fire; and wastes in human life.
"Against these and other wastes the Department, acting always in cooperation with the industries, has for the past three years developed an increasing definite program. As these manifold activities of the Department are based upon cooperation with industry and commerce, none of them leads to paternalistic ends."
At the outset the Secretary reviews briefly the work of the National Conference on Unemployment in 1921, and says that the report on "Unemployment and the Business Cycle" did much to curb the beginnings of a dangerous boom in the spring of 1923.
In response to the need for more adequate industrial statistics, as stressed in the Business Cycle Committee's report, the Department inaugurated the publication of the monthly "Survey of Current Business," which has been steadily expanded until it now covers 1,400 separate items.
A second committee from the Unemployment Conference undertook the study of seasonal operation in the construction industries. This committee made its report last July. "The report showed conclusively that custom, not climate, is mainly responsible for the seasonal ups and downs in building, and that these evils are largely unnecessary and can be eliminated," says Mr. Hoover. "For most types of construction it is now possible to build the year round in all parts of the United States. The elimination of these wastes would strengthen the entire business structure, for construction is the balance wheel of American industry. The value of yearly construction in the United States is more than $5,000,000,000. If building falls off, there is always a slackening in many other lines of industry, resulting in unemployment, decreased purchasing power of employees, and further depression."

Coal Industry
The annual report then turns to the bituminous coal industry. Investigations made early in the present administration revealed the high instability of this industry and the fact that it was functioning at great national loss. Of accomplishments in this field Mr. Hoover says:
"Through cooperation of trade associations of the principal industrial consumers, through chambers of commerce and public utilities a large amount of regular summer storage has been induced. Through the fine cooperation of the railways greater equipment and terminal facilities have been provided and car shortages have been largely eliminated. Through cooperation by the department with the unionized operators and with the leaders of the United Mine Workers a long term agreement has been entered upon, which insures industrial peace in the industry.

Demoralized for Time

"It is true that during the past few months the industry has been somewhat demoralized by the large stocks of coal accumulated in anticipation of a possible strike last spring, and by the lessened demand during the summer. The broad results of gained stability, however, has been that the public has received its coal during the last fiscal year at the lowest price of any year since before the war. The past year, as compared to the year 1920, shows a saving to the consumer of about one billion dollars, which must be reflected in decreasing costs of production in every avenue of industry and commerce."
The programme of the Northeastern Superpower Committee, under Mr. Hoover's chairmanship, is discussed in another effort in the direction of waste elimination. Revision of federal and state purchasing specifications, under the auspices of the Bureau of Standards, is still another. Industrial research work undertaken by the Bureau, in cooperation with the industries concerned, and with a view to improvement in technical processes, is still another. There was also established in the Bureau a Division of Simplified Practice, to help eliminate the wastes arising from unnecessary diversification.

ATOM "DISCOVERY" FINDS WASHINGTON SKEPTICAL

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington, Nov. 28.—If Dr. T. E. Wall of Sheffield (England) University really has discovered a means of breaking up atoms at reasonable cost, as he says he has, scientists at the government bureau of standards here declare the world is due for a period of change such as never was known before in its history.

The bureau of standards experts are frankly skeptical, however.

Not that atoms cannot be disintegrated, Sir Ernest Rutherford of Cambridge disintegrated some 10 or 15 of them—one after another. By the use of radium particles he succeeded in directing an electrical beam into the atom's interior and blew it up, literally. But to do this he had to generate several million watts of electricity, at a cost of several hundred dollars, and all he got in return for his trouble and expense was half a watt of atomic energy.

Thought It Unprofitable

Sir Ernest figured he could get one millimeter of hydrogen, which is the source of the atom's power, out of an atom of aluminum, by using all the alpha particles in one gram of radium, costing $100,000.

Consequently he gave it as his opinion that atomic energy never could be developed profitably.

The bureau of standards experts incline to agree with him, though of course they're waiting to hear more concerning Dr. Wall's method before making up their minds definitely.

An atom really, they explain at the bureau, is a miniature solar system, with negative electrons revolving around a positive sun.

Scientists have found means of attracting the electrons away from the sun, but it is in the sun itself that the atom's energy resides. Little as it is, the sun is so energetic that, were all this energy released at one pop, with no preliminary precautions, it's possible the concussion would shatter the big sun we live under and all its planets.

At least, so the experts say.

Obviously, then, Dr. Wall is monkeying with an extremely high-power explosive.

Would Do Wonders

But under proper control, atomic power, economically developed, undoubtedly would do wonders for the human race.

For instance, it is estimated that the controllable power derived from the atoms contained in six teaspoonfuls of water would send a dreadnought across the Atlantic.

Obviously the day of coal is past if Dr. Wall has learned how to utilize atomic energy. The day of hard work is past also. The whole machinery of the world will be run by a few scientists sitting in a laboratory extracting the pep from a few little particles of matter too small to be seen through the strongest microscope.

No, the bureau of standards experts do not believe Dr. Wall has accomplished it—not yet awhile.

Diseases traced to constipation are many

—get permanent relief with Kellogg's Bran

Why does constipation breed other diseases? Because it floods your system with dangerous poisons. And the longer you suffer, the more poisons accumulate. That is why constipation should be relieved at once.

Doctors recommend Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbed. They know it brings results because it is ALL bran. And only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective in relieving constipation.

ALL bran—Kellogg's—sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It acts as a nature acts. It makes the intestine function naturally and regularly. If eaten regularly, it will bring permanent relief in the most chronic cases of constipation—is guaranteed.

ASSESSMENT METHOD IS UP

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 28.—Every effort is being made to have as many North Dakota assessors as possible present at a meeting of the State Assessors' association to be held at Jamestown on December 2 and 3, it is announced by Robert Green Jr., Grand Forks city assessor.

At this meeting attempts will be made to provide a more systematic and uniform method of assessing city property and to devote schedules of valuation in order that assessors may be supplied with what will serve as a yardstick in the measuring of values.

The Rev. Mr. Meisel has served Lutheran pastorates at Mohr and at Garske, N. D., and for the past two years has been connected with
